Made Strong Appeal to Rich and Charitable Man.

The late Edward Morris, the Chica. go meat packer, was worth over $50, 000,000, and contributed every year to charity as much money as he spent upon his home. Mr. Morris, like most charitable souls, had a host of anecdotes that threw a quaintly pathetic light on poverty.

Thus at a Christmas dinner in Chicago Mr. Morris once said:

"Every eater of a Christmas dinner should think of the little urchin who stood in front of a rich man's basement kitchen, inhaling rapturously the rich odor of roast turkey and gushed forth from the open window, and muttering over and over to himself:

" 'Gee, I wisht I had a slice o' bread to go with that there smen." "
